The Great Panic. JAY COOKE, the most prominent banker in the United States, failed about two weeks ago, and hundreds of prominent firms were forced to do likewise, in consequence. A panic amo g depositors everywhere followed, and to prevent a similar result, the banks in nearly every city in the Union suspended for a short time, well knowing that they could not meet a run. Everything will be all right in a few weeks-so soon as the panic is over, and the people resame confid ace in the banks. Thextent of the panic was caused by the fact that JAY COOKE had the coofidence of the G evernment, and everybody believed he was omnipotent. and could not break.
